GOAL # 1 Expand method of statistical comparison for Passing and Mastery rates to include COHORT COMPARISONS throughout grades 9, 10, 11 beginning with the 2011 cohort. The current method of annual grade-level comparison provides general statistical data. COHORT COMPARISON will generate mid-year data specific to a group, allowing for tailoring of lessons/skill content by cohort to realize statistically valid increases in MASTERY RATES of 5% yearly.

NOTE: Data compilation is in stage one (year one of a three-year cycle), initiated with 2011 Cohort (2007-08 freshman class).

Teachers will pinpoint weak areas for a given "year" group and adjust lessons accordingly. This REFLECTIVE practice should yield a more EFFECTIVE learning environment. Administrator will be provided with statistical comparisons of actual cohorts – a more valid comparison for evaluating teaching strategies and curriculum strengths/weaknesses.	Department Coordinator will pull records from previous years (Now in data base?) to create comparison data charts for the current Grades 9, 10, 11. Department Coordinator will pull Grade 8 ELA statistics (Now in data base?) to generate complete charts. Department/Grade-level meetings will be utilized to develop teaching plans/strategies to respond to determined areas of need.	Initial charts/statistics generated for the MARCH '08 Dept. meeting. -Darlene Senick Annual charts/statistics generated for end-of-year Administration reports. These charts/statistics to be utilized at September/October Department meetings to guide grade-level planning. -Darlene Senick	Department Coordinator will copy Administrator on all generated charts. Each grade-level will provide to the Coordinator the minutes for their planning/strategy meetingscopied to Administrator Each grade-level will assign one teacher to be responsible for the updating of Curriculum Mapscopies of updated maps provided annually to Administrator Teachers are expecting that this level of REFLECTIVE practice, creating a more EFFECTIVE learning environment, should yield a consistent increase in student passing/mastery rates due to the greater awareness of students' weaknesses.	Department Coordinator may need further instruction in the usage of the new data basesCould this be offered through the PDP? Teachers will need time allotments for these specialized meetingsTracking of meeting dates and accumulation of hours should be handled through the PDP system.

GOAL # 2 Improve student accountability for technical writing skills development (TASKs I and II) and literature response (TASKs III and IV) as both areas are taught within the current curriculum and need to be represented within the Assessment framework and Final Exams for each grade level.

Beginning with the 2011 Cohort, TASKS are split between grades 9 (I, III) and 10 (II, IV), and ASSESSED in ALTERNATE QUARTERS. Through the implementation of Goals 1 and 3, we anticipate target increases of 5% per alternate quarters, yielding an overall yearly increase per Cohort of 10% at the Proficiency Level (movement from ELA 3 and lower to 4 and higher) and 5% at the Mastery Level (movement from level 4 to level 5 and higher). It is projected that the 2011 Cohort will reach a MAJORITY ELA Mastery Rate with the 2010 ELA Examination.

Based on the mid-yr compiled Assessments, the 2011 Cohort would increase from a 31% Mastery Rate in Grade 9 to a 50% Mastery Rate by Grade 11.
